New Headway Plus- Special Edition- Pre-intermediate
Unit 1

I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

We can communicate with other people in many different ways. We can talk and write, and we can send messages with our hands and faces. There is also the phone (including the mobile for chatting and text messaging), the fax, and e-mail. Television, film, painting, and photography can also communicate ideas.

Animals have ways of exchanging information, too. Bees dance and tell other bees where to find food. Elephants make sounds that humans can't hear. Whales sing songs. Monkeys use their faces to show anger and love. But this is nothing compared to what people can do. We have language-about 6000 languages, in fact. We can write poetry, tell jokes, make promises, explain, persuade, tell the truth, or tell lies. And we have a sense of past and future, not just present.

Radio, film, and television have had a huge influence on society in the last hundred years. And now we have the Internet, which is infinite. But is this doing to us? We can give and get a lot of information very quickly. But there is so much information that it is difficult to know what is important and what isn't. Modern media is changing our world every minute of every day.

I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

Amsterdam – Manama, Bahrain
Arne Hendrick, 38, solar engineering consultant

Arne's sun-tanned face shows that he doesn't spend all his time in his home town of Amsterdam. 'People always ask me where I've been on holiday!' he says. Arne and his family are based in Bahrain at the moment. Arne flies back to Holland every six weeks and spends two or three weeks in his company's head office there. He works on solar energy projects in Bahrain, and sometimes in Saudi Arabia. His last project was a solar park on the rooftop of a big Saudi university.

'The contrast in lifestyles couldn't be more different,' he says. 'In an Amsterdam winter I run between office, cafes, and home in the freezing cold and rain, wearing a thick raincoat. A day later I can be walking to work in Bahrain wearing a T-shirt! We have a nice apartment in Amsterdam, and the family sometimes comes back with me, but my wife, Eva, is very happy living in our villa in the compound in Bahrain. There's a swimming pool, and tennis courts, and being in a community like that is great for a mother with small kids.

We miss the Amsterdam coffee shops sometimes. It's strange, but sometimes I want to sit in a warm cosy café and see the rain pouring down outside! I miss speaking Dutch too. ### Cambridge – Nuremburg

Joss Langford, 29, snowboard designer

'In Germany, I feel European. In England, I feel English,' says Joss. Every two weeks, Joss leaves his farmhouse home near Cambridge for another farmhouse near Nuremberg. 'Both places are really flat,' says Joss.

'It's a strange choice of landscape for a snowboard designer. I design in England, build in Germany, then drive to Switzerland to test the boards.' The distance between my homes in England and Germany is almost 1,000km door-to-door. He knows this because he sometimes drives. It makes a nice change from flying. Joss flew 100 times last year. He doesn't mind all the air travel, but there are disadvantages. 'It's exhausting, and I've always got a cold', he says. 'People think it's glamorous, but I don't fly first class.'

In each country he has a social life. Although Joss speaks German, people in Nuremberg always want to practise their English. In Cambridge, he lives with his wife, Kate. She travels a lot in her job, too. 'I call her before bedtime. Sometimes our planes cross in the skies.'

In Nuremberg, he rents a room with his colleagues. 'There, I eat more meat and cheese – and more cakes!' I watch TV because I don't have one at home. I know all the German celebs! I'm not lonely. I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

Passage 1

The Floating Markets of Bangkok

Bangkok, the capital of Thailand, is a city of contrasts. The tall glass buildings look like any other modern city. But behind them is a place where life hasn't changed for over 100 years - the canals. Built in 1866 by the King of Thailand, these canals are home to many Thai people who still live and work there today. There are four floating markets around Bangkok and the oldest and most popular is in the town of Damonen Saduak.

This market opens every day from 6.30 a.m. It's best to shop early and go by water taxi. After 9 a.m. the tourist buses arrive, and it's much too busy.

It's a colourful, noisy, fascinating place. Old ladies with huge hats sit in small boats, filled with tropical fruit and vegetables, fresh coconut juice and local food. Did you miss your breakfast? Then just call a seller for a bowl of hot soup. He'll get it from a cooker at the back of his boat!

But the boats don't just sell food. Would you like a traditional hat? A silk dress? A flowered shirt? Then just call and point. After the noise and excitement of the market, continue along the canal. Soon you'll see the wooden houses, orchards, and floating flowers of the canal villages. It's a lovely, peaceful way to finish your trip.

A Perfect Day in Provence

Every Sunday in a small town called Isle-sur-la-Sorgue in southern France there is a truly amazing market. Isle-sur-la-Sorgue is like Venice. The River Sorgue runs in and out of the old narrow streets and under the many bridges, and on market day every street and bridge is packed with stalls. From early morning, this sleepy little town becomes a noisy, busy place, with sellers calling to you in the accent of the south.

You can choose from an amazing selection of olives, hundreds of cheeses, and delicious roast chickens. But it is not just a food market. Antique sellers fill the pavements with beautiful old French furniture, and there are tables covered with antique lace and cloth. Flower sellers invite you to pick from their brightly coloured bunches of flowers. The air is filled with the smell of soaps, herbs, and lavender, all made and grown in Provence. Do you need a sun hat? Did you forget your beach towel? Your choices are endless.

Travellers fill their backpacks with delicious things for Sunday lunch: olive bread, tomatoes, chicken, melon and, of course, a bottle of local mineral water. At 1 o'clock everything closes, and everyone goes home. Then it's time to find a cool place next to the river for a perfect picnic on a perfect day in Provence.

Passage 3

The Souks of Marrakech

Marrakech in Morocco is a city of ancient, sand-coloured buildings and palm trees in the middle of the desert.

In the centre is the main square, Jemaa el Fna. Here you can see snakes and drink Moroccan coffee. But behind the square is the real heart of the city. This is the souk (the Arabic word for market). Hundreds of little shops and stalls are open from early morning till lunchtime, and again in the evening. The souk, with its narrow, busy streets, is divided into lots of smaller souks. There's the aromatic spice souk, the noisy meat souk, the colourful clothing souk, the gold and silver souk, and many more.

Finally, there's the carpet souk. Here, hundreds of handmade Moroccan rugs and carpets cover the pavements. No two rugs are the same. In Mr. Youssef's rug shop, he invites you to sit down among all the beautiful carpets. A silver teapot arrives with little glasses and Mr. Youssef talks about the different rugs, while his assistants roll them out one by one. Two hours later, after many glasses of traditional mint tea and lots of bargaining, you finally choose your rug and leave much poorer. ### Sample Test 5

I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

The children of Gaza

For the children of the Gaza Strip, getting an education isn't easy. There are 640 schools for nearly ½ million students, and schools have two shifts a day – some children have classes in the evenings. School buildings and surrounding roads are often closed, and going to school can be impossible for long periods.

However, a good education still comes first in most Gazan parents' ambitions for their children, and among 15-24-year-olds literacy is 98.2%, higher than in America.

“The children really want to learn, and they are tough here”, said one teacher. Teachers persuade young people to come to school rather than get involved in the protests and fighting. “We try to explain that there are other ways to fight for our rights, through our words, and through learning and teaching others about what's happening, by helping each other.”

The young people of Gaza can't go abroad, and they need to feel that the world can hear their voices. In 2010, with The Gaza Mono-Logues project of ASHTAR Theatre, children in Gaza had the opportunity to record their experiences of life. On October 17th, they read their monologues aloud on the sea shore, and then sent them on papers boats across the sea. Later that day, 1000 young people presented the monologues in 50 cities across the world.

New Headway Plus- Special Edition- Pre-intermediate

Unit 7

I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

The racing driver and the tennis player

Bruno and Maria Cruz

They are one of the most famous married couples in the sporting world. He is the racing driver who has won seven Formula One championships. He has won Grands Prix in nearly every country possible. She is the tennis player who has won more Grand Slam titles than any other woman. She has been the number one female tennis player in the world for the last 8 years. Bruno and Maria have been married for five years. They have lived in their home since January. They invited Hi! into their luxury home.

You're both incredibly busy in your separate careers. How do you find time to be together?

Bruno: "A lot of the time we've been together, we've been in different countries! Naturally, we try to spend more time together, but it's not easy. We've both flown all over the world for a weekend, just to be together."

Maria: "Yes, it can be crazy sometimes. Occasionally we both have championships in the same country. That doesn't happen often, so it's a real treat. But now that we've got this beautiful home, we're working hard to make sure we get enough time together here - private time."

It must be difficult to find enough private time. What's it like being in a marriage when you're both superstars?

Maria: "I don't know what 'superstar' means really, it's a word that other people use. We're both just very good at, and feel passionate about, our different sports. And we've been very lucky to have the chance to show that to the world. But when we're not doing that ... well, we're just normal people really. We are normal, aren't we, Bruno?"

Bruno: "Yes! I don't think that fame and fortune have changed me. We don't spend all our time dressing up and going out to fancy, expensive restaurants. Most evenings we're happy to cook a meal and sit and watch TV together. But it obviously helps that we both know about the problems of being famous. And fortunately for me, people don't recognize me as much as Maria!"

How did you two meet?

Bruno: "I was practising for the Australian Grand Prix in Melbourne, and a friend had tickets for the final of the Australian Tennis Open there. I met Maria at the celebration dinner afterwards. I already knew about her as a tennis player, of course. But when we started talking for the first time ... well, it was that wonderful feeling that you've known someone all your life!"

Maria: "I knew very little about Formula One, so I wasn't sure what to ask him. I've never been very interested in it to be honest - too much about tyres and engines for my liking! But I've certainly learnt a lot about it since then."

And what about the future?

Bruno: "We're both at the point where we know that it can't go on for much longer, being at the top. But we've had wonderful careers, and I think we can both look forward to retiring. We'd like to have some peace and quiet and spend more time here with each other, and ..."

Maria: "... and with one or two little Cruzs! I've always wanted to have a family, and the good thing about being a professional tennis player is that you stop at an age where that's still possible. And this will be such a fantastic home to bring up children in!"

I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

Sunset in the West

The first industrial economies were European, until the 1890s, when the US became the world's economic superpower. In the 1960s the 'Asian Tigers' arrived, and suddenly everything we bought was 'Made in Japan/South Korea'. But the populations of these new industrial nations are much smaller than America's, and could never produce enough to move the centre of the world economy from West to East .

Made in China

Now the East's time has come. China, with its population of 1.3 billion, has already become 'the world's factory'. If its economy continues to grow at 10%, it will become the biggest economy in the world by 2018. It will also take America's place as the world's largest oil market, thirsty for petrol to run the 140m private cars on its roads .

'Rolex now sell a third of their watches to the Chinese '

The West was once afraid of China because of its communist ideas. Now it's more worried about China's success in capitalism. China has nearly 100 billionaires. Although many of its people are still poor, a third of the world's luxury products - Chanel perfume, Rolex watches, Lacoste clothing - are now sold in China .

The sky's the limit ?

The pollution in the skies over cities like Beijing is one of the costs of this incredible success. Five out of ten of the world's most polluted cities are in China, and its economy will have to become 'greener' as quickly as it has become more capitalist. Another problem for China's future economy is its population growth. Because of the 'one child perfamily' policy, started in the 1980s, the working population of China will start to get smaller in 2015 .

What about India ?

Everyone is talking about China as the future world superpower, but India isn't far behind. India already has over 1 billion people, and here there will be no problems finding enough workers for its fast growing economy. If the population continues to grow as quickly as now, it will be bigger than China's by 2040 .

'Bangalore is one of the most exciting places in the world '

And although it has enough cheap workers to produce a car for $2000, India is not just a gigantic factory. It has an enormous number of highly educated scientists, engineers, and IT specialists. Many of the West's successful technology companies use Indian teams to design software for their mobile phones and computers. The Vice-President of Cisco Systems said recently, 'I find Bangalore one of the most exciting places in the world. It's what Silicon Valley in California was in 1999 .' .

From West to East

Between them, China and India have a third of the world's population. Every year they produce a million graduates in science and engineering (the US produces 70,000), entering industry and doing research in university departments .

Whether China or India becomes the leading economic power, the result for the West will be the same. America's time as the world's most powerful nation will soon be over, and all Western countries will have to live in a changing world, where the sun rises in the East once more.

I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

Did you know that a tiny piece of your hair gives us information about who you are related to, which career you could be successful in, any crimes you have committed, what illnesses you could get, how and when you could die?

This is possible thanks to the information in DNA (or deoxyribonucleic acid). Your hair and every cell in your body contains your own unique DNA. It can tell you a lot about your family, health, and personality.

DNA was discovered by a German scientist, Friedrich Miescher, in 1869, but nobody realized its importance then. Other scientists thought that it was too simple to contain the map of how we are made! In 1953, a group of British scientists at Cambridge University finally discovered the structure of DNA and how it worked. They were given the Nobel Prize for Medicine in 1962.

Gradually, scientists learned to “read” more and more of the information in DNA. In 1986, for the first time DNA testing was used by the police. Some DNA is usually left by a criminal at the place where the crime was committed. This can be matched with DNA from a suspect. The test shows if the suspect is guilty.

In 1990 the Human Genome Project was begun. Scientists wanted to make a map of the 3 billion chemical letters in human DNA. Over 1,000 scientists all over the world worked on the project, and it took 10 years. With this information, it is possible that a cure for many diseases will be found in the future. But it also brings with it many questions. Do we want to be able to choose what our babies will look like, or pick the best person for a job with DNA tests?

I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

Super Volcano

'Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming, USA'

A hot July day, and some of the 3 million visitors who come to the park every year are watching one of the geysers erupt. Everyone is impressed, but as they chatter excitedly and eat their ice-creams, not many of them realize that they are standing on top of the largest active volcano in the world. Scientists have known for a long time that Yellowstone is a volcanic area. But the strange thing is that until the 1960s, none of them could find a volcano anywhere in the park. Then, new photos taken by NASA showed the reason why - the whole park, 9,000 square metres of it, is a volcano!

Volcanoes like Yellowstone are called 'supervolcanoes', because they are so huge and dangerous - 1,000 times more powerful than ordinary volcanoes. There are about 40 of them on Earth, but none of them has erupted recently. The most recent was 74,000 years ago in Indonesia. The last time Yellowstone Park erupted was 640,000 years ago.

But what would happen if the Yellowstone volcano erupted again today? Here are the events that might follow:

Day 1-Yellowstone Park, USA

If the volcano erupted, hot ash and rock would shoot up into the air at 250kmph. The cities of Denver and Salt Lake would be destroyed immediately, and 87,000 people would die. Eventually the ash would cover 3/4 of the USA, and drinking water and food crops would be contaminated.

Week 1- Europe

The whole of Europe would be covered by a grey cloud. Summer would turn to winter, and in some places the sea would freeze. No European country would be able to grow food for four or five years.

The next 3 months - Worldwide

90% of our sunlight would be blocked and a volcanic winter would cover the Earth. The tropical forests would die and food crops in warm countries, such as India and China, would fail. Only countries near the North and South Poles could carry on as usual. Iceland would do well, because most of its food is grown in special greenhouses. It might be able to send food to the rest of the world.

How likely is it?

Fortunately, scientists at the Yellowstone Volcanic Observatory say that there is no evidence that the volcano will erupt in the near future. They say 'such events are unlikely to happen in the next few centuries'. So we can all get on with our lives and stop worrying, which is good to know.

I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

I don't believe that today's wonders are similar in kind to the wonders of the Ancient World. They were all buildings, such as the Pyramids in Egypt, or other architectural structures. Over the past 100 years, we have seen amazing technological and scientific achievements. These are surely our modern wonders.

The Internet is everywhere. More than half a billion people use it, and the number of people who are online increases by 100 million every year. In 1994 there were only a few hundred web pages. Today there are billions. It has revolutionized the way we live and work. But we are still in the early days. Soon there will be more and more interactivity between the user and the websites, and we will be able to give instructions using speech.

In 1969, Neil Armstrong stepped out of his space capsule onto the surface of the moon and made his famous statement: "That's one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind." Since then, there have been space probes to Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, and even to the sun. One day, a space observatory will study how the first stars and galaxies began. So far, it seems that we are alone in the universe. There are no signs yet that there is intelligent life outside our own solar system. But who knows what the future holds?

Surely nothing has done more for the comfort and happiness of the human race than the advances in health care! How many millions of people have benefited from the humble aspirin? How many lives has penicillin saved? Average life expectancy worldwide has risen dramatically over the past 100 years, from about 47 years in 1900 to about 77 years today.

I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

The life of a hard-working future king

His eccentric habits are known to the world, but the Prince of Wales has every reason to feel content. A man with wide interests, and deep passions, he is finally happily married. DANIELLA KENT reports

Prince Charles is often portrayed as bad-tempered and spoilt. There are stories that every day seven eggs are boiled for his breakfast so that he can find one that is cooked just the way he likes it. His toothpaste is sneezed onto his toothbrush for him. And his bath towel is folded over a chair in a particular way for when he gets out of his royal bath.

He has an enormous private staff - secretaries, deputy secretaries, press officers, four valets, two butlers, housekeepers, two chefs, two chauffeurs, ten gardeners, an army of porters, handymen, cleaners and maids. They are expected to get everything right. When HRH (His Royal Highness) feels they have performed their duties well, they are praised in a royal memo. But if they have made mistakes, they are called into his study and told off. The Prince can get so angry that he has been known to have tantrums, throwing things and screaming with rage.

The private and public man

Charles is eccentric and he admits it. He talks to trees and plants. He wants to save wildlife, but enjoys hunting, shooting, and fishing. He dresses for dinner, even if he's eating alone. He's a great socializer. Poets, explorers, writers, broadcasters, philosophers, and politicians all eat at his table. Arriving at Highgrove, his family home, on a Saturday afternoon, guests are entertained in the height of luxury. They are then sent on their way before lunch on Sunday.

The Prince also entertains extravagantly at Sandringham, one of the Queen's homes, at least twice a year. There are picnic lunches on the beach, and lavish dinners with organic food from Highgrove. Conversation is lively, but the heir to the throne has to be careful what he says, because he knows too well that anything he says in private may be repeated in public.

The future monarch that we don't see is a man of great humour, who cares passionately about the state of the British nation. He is madly in love with 'his darling wife', which is how he refers to Camilla in public. He is also devoted to his two children, William and Harry. He spoke of his delight at William's marriage to Catherine Middleton in 2011, calling her 'the daughter we never had'.

A dutiful life

Together Charles and Camilla perform royal duties, both at home and abroad. He attends over 500 public engagements a year. He visits hospitals, youth groups, charities, and business conferences. He hosts receptions to welcome visiting heads of state and VIPs. He travels abroad extensively, as an ambassador of the United Kingdom, representing trade and industry.

Charles works hard to promote greater understanding between different religions, and is patron of the Oxford Centre for Islamic Studies at the University of Oxford. He is also President of the Prince's Charities, which are active in promoting education, business, the environment, and opportunities for young people. The group raises £110 million annually. After the floods in Pakistan in 2010, the Prince started the Pakistan Recovery Fund, to raise money for health, education, and reconstruction.

Everything except the top job

Since his second marriage, Prince Charles has everything he wants except, as Diana (who was killed in a car accident in 1997) used to call it, 'the top job'. Yet despite not being on the throne, he has worked hard to accomplish so much. He is concerned about the state of the country he loves, and shows his frustration that governments do little to tackle those problems about which he feels so strongly.

The Prince of Wales has his own food company, Duchy Originals. It originally sold biscuits, but is now expanding to become one of Britain's best-known and most successful organic brands, with over 200 different products, including food, drinks, and hair and body care products.

Charles, well-intentioned, hard-working, conservative and old fashioned, continues to do his duty as he sees it. But he is no longer alone. One day he will be King, and his darling Camilla will be HRH The Princess Consort.

I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

Agatha Mary Clarissa Christie is possibly the world's most famous detective story writer. She wrote 78 novels, and her sales (4 billion copies of her novels) outnumber those of William Shakespeare. However, behind her 4,680,000 words was a painfully shy woman whose life was often lonely and unhappy.

She was born in 1890 in Devon, the third child of Clarissa and Frederick Miller, and grew into a beautiful and sensitive girl. She didn't go to school but was educated by her parents. Her father taught her mathematics through stories and games, and her mother encouraged her to write her own stories. Unfortunately her father died in 1901 when she was 11, and both she and her mother were grief-stricken.

When World War I came in 1914, she became a nurse in a hospital dispensary, which proved very useful to her later career. Many of the murders in her books were carried out by a clever use of drugs and poisons, showing how much she had learnt about them as a nurse.

She wrote her first detective novel, The Mysterious Affair at Styles, in 1920. In it she introduced Hercule Poirot, the Belgian detective who appeared in many subsequent novels. Her other main detective was an

Unit 4

I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

Travelling to all corners of the world gets easier and easier. We live in a global village, but this doesn't mean that we all behave in the same way.

How should you behave when you meet someone for the first time? An American or Canadian shakes your hand firmly while looking you straight in the eyes. In many parts of Asia, there is no physical contact at all. In Japan, you should bow, and the more respect you want to show, the deeper you should bow. In Thailand, the greeting is made by pressing both hand together at the chest and bowing your head slightly. In both countries, eye contact is avoided as a sign of respect.

Many countries have rules about what you should and shouldn't wear. In Asian and Muslim countries, you shouldn't reveal the body, especially women, who should wear long sleeved blouses and skirts below the knee.

In Japan, you should take off your shoes when entering a house or a restaurant. Remember to place them neatly together facing the door you came in. This is also true in China, Korea, Thailand, and Iran.

In Italy, Spain, and Latin America, lunch is often the biggest meal of the day, and can last two or three hours. For this reason many people eat a light breakfast and a late dinner. In Britain, you might have a business lunch and do business as you eat. In Mexico and Japan, many people prefer not to discuss business while eating. Lunch is a time to relax and socialize. In Britain and the United States, it's not unusual to have a business meeting over breakfast, and in China it's common to have business banquets, but you shouldn't discuss business during the meal.

In most countries, an exchange of business cards is essential for all introductions. You should include your company name and your position. If you are going to a country where your language is not widely spoken, you can get the reverse side of your card printed in the local language. In Japan, you must present your card with both hands, with the writing facing the person you are giving it to. In many countries, business hours are from 9.00 or 10.00 to 5.00 or 6.00. However, in some countries, such as Greece, Italy, and Spain, some businesses close in the early afternoon for a couple of hours then remain open until the evening.

Japanese business people consider it their professional duty to go out to restaurants after work with colleagues. If you are invited, you shouldn't refuse, even if you don't feel like staying out late.

I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

Kevin's ideal holiday has a little bit of everything. He likes lazing on the beach with a pile of books, but then he gets bored and needs to do something. He likes exploring new places, especially on foot, and nosing around in shops, museums, and restaurants. He is very into trying local foods.

However, he must confess that his favourite "holiday resort" is home. He travels so much in his job that just waking up in his own bed is heaven. He potters around the house in his pyjamas, reads the paper, does some gardening, shops for some food, then makes a delicious meal in the evening and watches a film on TV.

He has three trips coming up. He is looking forward to going to Canada soon, where he is staying for four nights at the Ice Hotel. This is a giant igloo situated in Montmorency Fall Park, just 20 minutes from downtown Quebec. It is made from 4,500 tons of snow and 250 tons of ice, and it takes 5 weeks to build. It will stay open for three months. When the spring arrives, it will melt. Then it will be built again next year- maybe in a different place! Each room is supplied with a sleeping bag made from deer skins. I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

Global PIZZA

So you thought the burger was the world's most popular fast food? In fact, there is another truly universal fast food, the ultimate fast food. It's easy to make, easy to serve, much more varied than the burger, can be eaten with the hands, and it's delivered to your front door or served in fancy restaurants. It's been one of America's favourite foods for over 50 years. It is, of course, the pizza .

A brief history of Pizza

It's kind of silly to talk about the moment when pizza was 'invented'. It gradually evolved over the years, but one thing's for certain - it's been around for a very long time. The idea of using pieces of flat, round bread as plates came from the Greeks. They called them 'plakuntos' and ate them with various simple toppings such as oil, garlic, onions, and herbs. The Romans enjoyed eating something similar and called it 'picea'. By about 1000 A.D. in the city of Naples, 'picea' had become 'pizza' and people were experimenting with more toppings: cheese, meat, anchovies, and finally the tomato brought to Italy from Mexico and Peru in the sixteenth century. Naples became the pizza capital of the world. In 1889, King Umberto and Queen Margherita heard about pizza and asked to try it. They invited pizza maker, Raffaele Esposito, to make it for them. He decided to make the pizza like the Italian flag, so he used red tomatoes, white mozzarella cheese, and green basil leaves. The Queen loved it and the new pizza was named 'Pizza Margherita' in her honour .

Pizza migrated to America with the Italians at the end of the nineteenth century. The first pizzeria in the United States was opened in 1905 at 53½ Spring Street, New York City, by Gennaro Lombardi. But the popularity of pizza really exploded when American soldiers returned from Italy after World War II and raved about 'that great Italian dish'. Americans are now the greatest producers and consumers of pizza in the world .

New Headway Plus- Special Edition- Intermediate
Unit 7

I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

Dream Jobs

Stanley Karras works as a meteorologist in Tampa, Florida. It's his job to follow hurricanes by plane and provide information about them to scientists.

How did you get the job?

I was working for the National Meteorological Office in Bracknell, near London, in the autumn of 1999, and I saw a documentary with my family called Stormchasers. It was about hurricane hunters and I thought, 'Wow, that's an interesting job!' As it happened, two months later I came across an ad in a newspaper for a meteorologist to work in Florida with the same people who had made the documentary. I applied, was interviewed over the phone, moved to the US, and started work here in Tampa in May 2000.

What do you like most about it?

I love the travel. Chasing hurricanes has taken me all over the world. It's exciting to end up in different cities and different countries day after day. If you're a meteorologist, you have to love flying. I also love working with top scientists. I've learned so much from them and we've had a lot of exciting times together. For me, it's like a classroom in the sky.

What's an average day like?

There's no such thing as an average day in my job! It all depends on the weather, and you can't control that. It's constantly changing. We often take off at a moment's notice to chase storms. I'm the one who decides whether we fly low through a storm. I don't want to take us into a hurricane that could be particularly nasty. There's a lot on my shoulders.

Have you made any sacrifices to do this job?

Yes, one big one. I'm so far away from my family. They all live in the UK. My wife's with me, of course, but her family is also in the UK, so we're pretty cut off from them all over here.

What would you Like to do next?

I'd like to join a space programme and be the first meteorologist in space, but I haven't come up with an experiment to do in space yet. There aren't any hurricanes!

What advice would you give to someone who wanted to do your job?

Study maths and science and get a degree in meteorology. There are many areas in meteorology to study. I've taken the hurricane hunter path, but you could be a weather forecaster or do research in other areas. It's a fascinating subject and the pay's pretty good.

Choose the correct answer:

Unit 8

I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

Giving Away Your Money

Many rich people are ambitious and hard-working, some are mean and uncaring, but others see their enormous wealth as an opportunity to be generous to people less fortunate than themselves. These are philanthropists.

19th century philanthropists

The two richest men in history, America's Rockefeller and Carnegie, both 19th century industrialists, were great philanthropists. Carnegie, who built the US steel industry, was once a factory worker. Like many philanthropists, he made his own way to the top, and never forgot the difficulties faced by ordinary people. He gave over $350m to libraries, schools, and universities, and started his own Foundation for International Peace. He believed that the rich should use their money to improve society. He said, 'if a man dies rich, he dies disgraced'.

Modern philanthropists

Today's philanthropists have billions, not millions, to give away. The most famous modern philanthropist is Bill Gates, who dropped out of university to start his own company, Microsoft. I. Reading: Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

How well do you know the world?

What are the Earth's oldest living things ?

The White Mountains of California are home to our oldest living things - trees! The oldest tree in the world, Methuselah, has roots that go back over 4,600 years. This makes it older even than the Great Pyramids of Giza in Egypt. The 26-foot bristlecone pine tree is the oldest of many that have outlived civilization after civilization.

What man-made things on Earth can be seen from space ?

'When humans first flew in space, they were amazed to discover that the only man-made object visible from orbit was the Great Wall of China.' Although this is a nice idea, it's not true. The Great Wall is mostly grey stone in a grey landscape and, in fact, is very difficult to see even from a plane flying at a mere 15 kilometres above. What can be seen when orbiting the Earth (from about 200 kilometres up) are the lights of the world's large metropolitan areas.

What is the most terrible natural disaster to have hit the Earth ?

Earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, and hurricanes are responsible for the deaths of thousands of people every year. One of the most violent earthquakes ever recorded was in Ecuador in 1906. It was the equivalent of 100 H-bombs, but it was nothing compared to a volcanic eruption in Tambora, Indonesia in 1815. This was the equivalent of 10,000 H-bombs. But, even these are nothing compared to many tropical hurricanes: they regularly have the energy of an amazing 100,000 H-bombs .
